a mapping controller coupled to the host interface subsystem, the mapping controller to map logical block addresses of the host commands into block addresses of one or more peripherals to transceive the data blocks with the one or more peripherals.